

THAI PLASPAC

(TPAC TB/ TPAC.BK)

An undiscovered gem

TPAC meets all our criteria for a re-rating including solid earnings growth, resilient demand, healthy EBITDA margins, and moving to trade on the SET (from MAI). YTD, the share price has risen 9%, vs. 50 to 100% for packaging peers. At estimated Bt1.3 EPS in FY21F, TPAC's fair value would be Bt19.5/sh based on 15x PE vs. historical multiple of 13x (2008-20)

Solid earnings growth in FY20/21F

TPAC is an under-valued packaging company. We project its earnings to grow 158% this year (est. Bt358m) and 20% next year (to Bt430m) driven by resilient demand and healthy EBITDA margins (23% in 1H20 from 17% in 2016). It produces 100% recyclable, rigid packaging for FMCG and pharmaceutical companies. Its earnings growth next year would be supported by normal operations at TPAC India (43% sales revenue) which was closed in March-April due to lockdown and acquisition of additional 20% stake (to be finalized in 4Q20). The latter would contribute additional Bt20m profit pa (+5%). Their key raw materials are PE, PP and PET. TPAC should enjoy cheap raw material for another two years.

M&A in the pipeline, strong support from the Lohia family

After three successful acquisitions in 2018-19, TPAC will proceed with several more M&A when travel restrictions are removed. They are operating assets that will contribute earnings immediately. TPAC also plans to double capacity in the UAE (11% sales revenue), which would be completed in one year. TPAC has financial headroom to fund expansions given low gearing (0.5x net D/E). The new capacity at the UAE plant will be absorbed by multinational companies that are currently TPAC's customers in Thailand. Execution risk is low given proven track record under the Lohia family, the major shareholder of IVL. IVL supplies PET resins to TPAC in Thailand and the UAE on arm's length basis, but none to India.

Once liquidity issue is resolved, TPAC will move to the SET

TPAC would meet all criteria to move to the SET if it increases the number of shareholders to >1,000 from fewer than 700 currently. The Lohia family is willing to release some shares (5-10%) to increase free float but only at a fair price. The SET listing will increase TPAC's visibility. YTD, TPAC's share price is up 9%, vs. 50% to 100% for packaging peers (see p.6). At estimated Bt1.3 EPS in FY21F, TPAC's fair value would be Bt19.5/sh, based on 15x PE.

Background

TPAC was founded by the Busayapoka and Neungchamngong families in 1983 and listed in the MAI in 2005. The families sold 60% stake to the Lohia family in 4Q15 at Bt7.8/sh (Bt1 par) for Bt1.2bn. Since then, TPAC had made three acquisitions in Thailand (2Q18), India (4Q18) and UAE (3Q19) with total investment of Bt2.0bn. TPAC currently has 10 production facilities in Thailand (4), India (5), and UAE (1).

TPAC designs and manufactures rigid plastic packaging for FMCG and pharmaceutical companies. All packaging products are 100% recyclable.

Sales breakdown

In 2019, 67% of its sales revenue in food & beverage sector, 24% in pharmaceutical and personal care, and 9% in industrial and homecare. TPAC derived 47% sales revenue from Thailand, 50% from India, and 3% from UAE. It has over 200 customers for TPAC Thailand (more than 1,000 customers in India) with the largest customer contributing 7% of revenue in 2019. Top 10 customers account for 30% of revenue. TPAC's major customers include Dutch Milk, Unilever, Pfizer, Roche, Johnson & Johnson, Mama, CP-Meiji, Osotspa, Nestle, etc.

Production plants in Thailand, India, and UAE

TPAC increased its production plants from three to four plants by acquiring TPAC Packaging Bangna in 2Q18. TPAC acquired five plants in India in 4Q18 and one plant in the UAE in 3Q19. As of 2Q20, TPAC has 10 production facilities in Thailand (4), India (5), and UAE (1).

TPAC Packaging Bangna (100% owned), TPAC Packaging India (80% owned), and Sun Packaging System, UAE (89% owned) are three subsidiaries. TPAC is in the process of acquiring additional 20% stake of TPAC Packaging India from existing shareholder at US$15m (Bt480m), which will be funded by internal cash flow and debt. We estimate TPAC's net debt/equity to increase to 0.7x from 0.5x currently.

TPAC: Major acquisitions

Covid-19 lockdown impact

TPAC had completely shut down all five plants in India for 11 days in March. The Indian government later allowed TPAC to resume partial operations in April because they considered TPAC's products as essential products. TPAC only resumed normal operations in mid-May as some customers could not operate normally during lockdown.

Dragged by non-recurring expenses in 2018-19

TPAC set up TPAC Packaging India in 1Q18 and used this company to acquire Sunrise Containers for tax benefits. TPAC booked Bt82.5m administrative and legal expenses related to TPAC Packaging India in 2018.

TPAC booked Bt17m non-recurring expenses in 2019 related to the acquisition of India (Bt2m) and UAE (Bt15m). There were no non-recurring expenses in 1H20.

Financial headroom for expansion (after rights offering in November 2019)

TPAC restructured its balance sheet last year when it raised capital via rights offering at 3.4898 existing shares to 1 new share in November 2019. This increased paid-up shares by 72.73m to 326.55m shares, which were mostly subscribed by the Lohia family. This increased their stake to 69.7% from 60%.

TPAC raised Bt797m proceeds. This lowered its net debt/equity to 0.5x as of 2Q20 from 1.8x prior to the capital increase. TPAC used the proceeds to pare down debt that was borrowed to acquire TPAC Packaging India and Sun Packaging System (UAE). TPAC's debt covenant is 2.5x, which implies Bt3.0bn financial headroom to fund future expansions. Management would be comfortable to keep it below 1.5x.

TPAC will proceed with several more M&A when travel restrictions are removed. They are operating assets that will contribute earnings immediately. TPAC also plans to double capacity in the UAE, which would be completed in one year. TPAC has B100m cash at Sun Packaging System (UAE) and plans to use this to fund new expansion and some debt. Total investment is estimated at US$10m.

Resolving liquidity issue to qualify for transfer to the SET (from MAI)

TPAC targets to grow EBITDA by 20% in 2021. TPAC has fewer than 700 shareholders, below 1,000 shareholders required to list on the SET, although it meets all other criteria. The Lohia family is willing to release some shares (5-10%) to increase free float but only at a fair price. The SET listing will increase its visibility. YTD, the share price has risen 9%, vs. 50-100% for packaging peers. At estimated Bt1.3 EPS in FY21F, TPAC's fair value would be Bt19.5/sh, based on 15x PE.
